Our Policies

Wessex Water is committed to meeting the aims of the Act and to having a work environment that is free from human trafficking, slavery, servitude and forced or compulsory labour. Wessex Water strongly opposes slavery and human trafficking in its supply chains and in any part of its business.

Wessex Water has internal policies and procedures in place to ensure that it operates responsibly and ethically as a business including its whistleblowing and anti-bribery policies.

Our Supply Chain

Wessex Water has in place systems to identify and assess potential risk areas within its supply chain and to mitigate any identified areas of risk.

Where possible, Wessex Water has built and maintained longstanding relationships with trusted suppliers, making clear its expectations of business behaviour.

Wessex Water's standard procurement processes include a variety of checks and reviews designed to ensure that suppliers comply with all applicable laws and regulations, including the Act.

Modern slavery clauses are also included in Wessex Water's contracts and purchase orders' standard terms and conditions which seek to ensure that suppliers meet their obligations under the Act and where required, demonstrate the steps they have taken to monitor compliance.

¹ Relevant group companies include Wessex Water Services Limited and Wessex Water Enterprises Limited.

Our People

Wessex Water rigorously checks that all of its employees have the legal right to work in the UK and the same rigour is applied to ensure that agency workers are subject to the same checks.

Wessex Water ensures that its employees receive the statutory employment rights to which they are entitled and are paid at or above the minimum wage. It also has processes and programmes in place which seek to create not only a safe, fair and inclusive working environment, but also one that supports wellbeing and learning.

As well as setting out the rights and benefits which are available to Wessex Water employees, published policies, employee handbooks and individual contracts of employment make it clear what actions and behaviours are expected of them.

Risk Management Process

Wessex Water has in place a risk management process with internal auditors to identify, assess, monitor and report on perceived business risks and provide assurance on the effective operation of internal controls, including compliance with its obligations under the Act.

Whilst Wessex Water has uncovered no evidence of slavery and human trafficking within its own operations and those of its suppliers, it will continue to keep its policies, processes and controls under review.

This statement was approved by the Boards of Directors of the respective companies within Wessex Water in January 2019 and will be reviewed on an annual basis.
